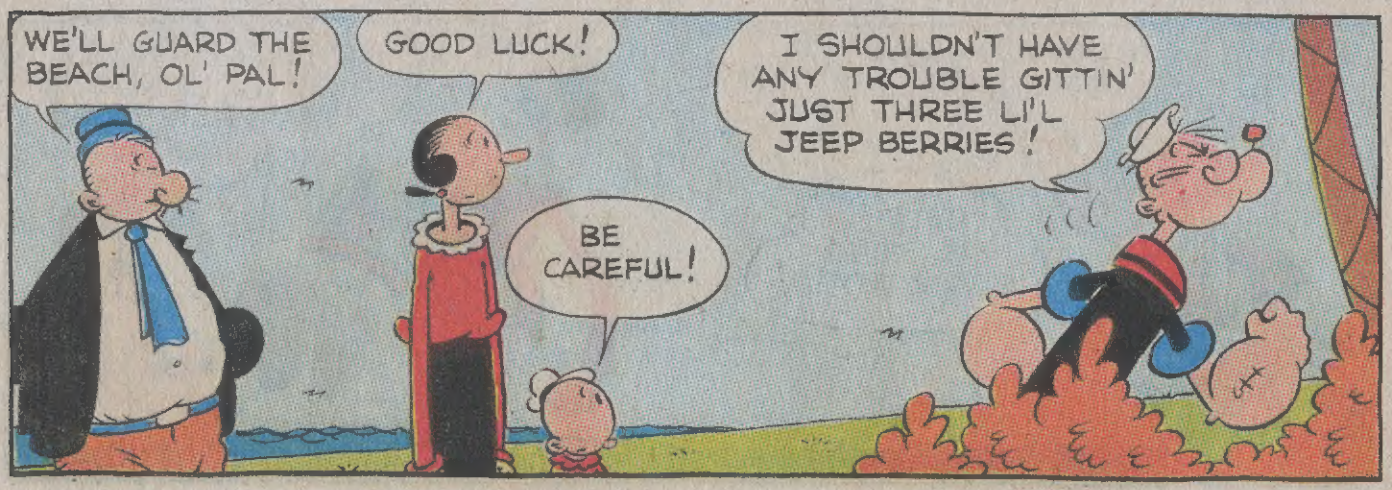
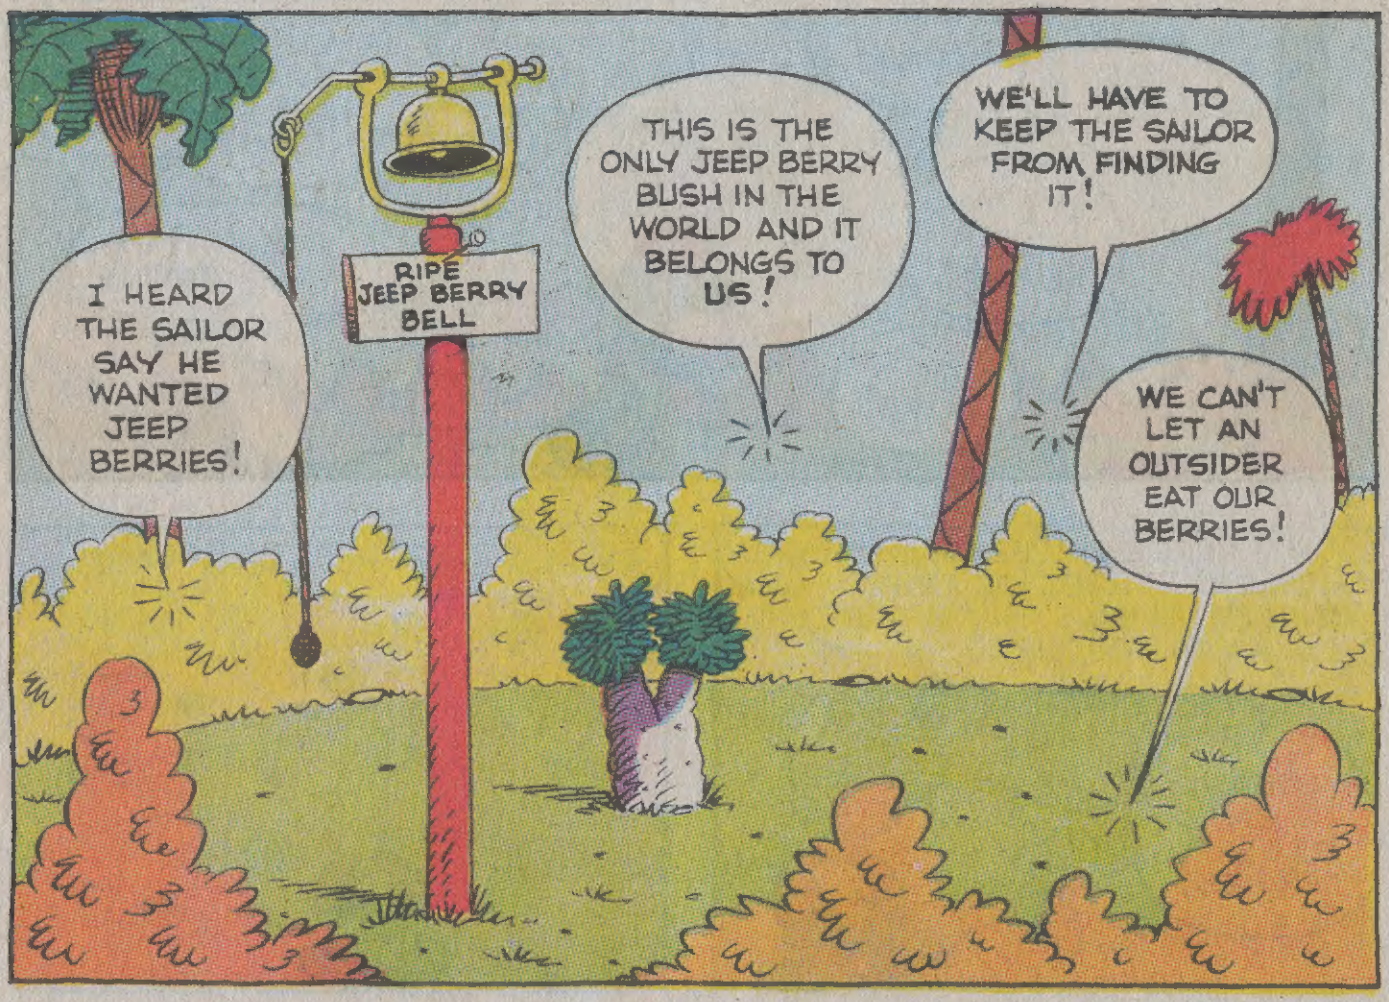
IT IS STRANGE!

I DOESN'T CARE WHY THEY LEFT... I JUST WANT THE JEEP BERRIES SO WE CAN LEAVE THIS HORRIBLE ISLAND!!
YOU STAY HERE... I'LL BE RIGHT BACK!

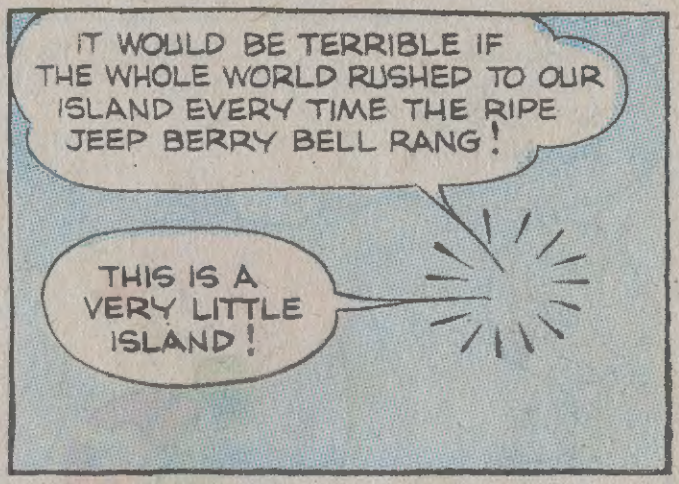


WE'LL GUARD THE BEACH, OL' PAL!
GOOD LUCK!
BE CAREFUL!
I SHOULDN'T HAVE ANY TROUBLE GITTIN' JUST THREE LI'L JEEP BERRIES!



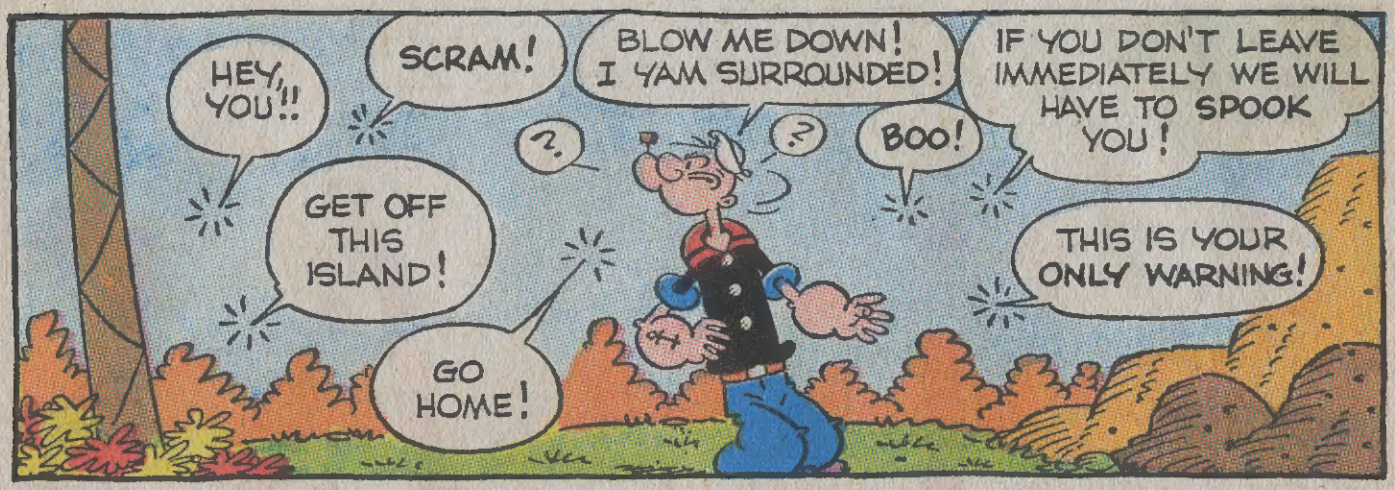
I HEARD THE SAILOR SAY HE WANTED JEEP BERRIES!
RIPE JEEP BERRY BELL
THIS IS THE ONLY JEEP BERRY BUSH IN THE WORLD AND IT BELONGS TO US!
WE'LL HAVE TO KEEP THE SAILOR FROM FINDING IT!
WE CAN'T LET AN OUTSIDER EAT OUR BERRIES!

IF THERE WERE A LOT OF THE JEEP BERRIES WE WOULD SHARE THEM!
BUT THERE AREN'T! ONLY SIX A DAY GET RIPE AND WE HAVE TO FIGHT OVER THEM!



IT WOULD BE TERRIBLE IF THE WHOLE WORLD RUSHED TO OUR ISLAND EVERY TIME THE RIPE JEEP BERRY BELL RANG!
THIS IS A VERY LITTLE ISLAND!

POOR EUGENE!! IF I DOESN'T GIT THREE JEEP BERRIES HE WILL BE A GONER!
I WILL GET THEM IF I HASTA FIGHT A MILLING SPOOKIES!



HEY, YOU!!
SCRAM!

CITY ..... STATE ..... ZIP .....

Ugh, the creative cave man, was in a prehistoric stew. While searching along the side of a cliff for eggs, he had stumbled upon a beautiful new cave. It was just the type of home he had always hoped for and the present tenants, eight giant bears, would be no problem to evict. His problem was strictly a social one. If he moved into a new cave, his friends would expect a cavewarming party and Ugh just wasn't experienced enough with party-giving to feel any confidence in his ability to guarantee his guests a pleasant time.

"What I need is a gimmick," he thought as he rapped one of the bears over the head with his number twelve size club. "I need something new . . . a new party game or some new type of entertainment."

His thoughts were interrupted by the necessity of clubbing four of the bears in quick succession. The tenants of the cave were being stubborn and were proving harder to evict than Ugh had thought they would be. The beasts were circling around Ugh and charging from all sides. The battle soon took on a rhythm of fighting and the boom of Ugh's club contacting bear heads echoed throughout the cave. Ugh had to be nimble to avoid the gnashing teeth and he jumped from foot to foot, forward and backward and side to side.

The slap of his feet and the boom of his club flowed together and the sound rolled up and down the valley. All the other cave people stopped what they were doing to listen to the rhythmic sounds. Before long, without being aware of what they were doing, the cave people began to weave back and forth. One young man grabbed a young female and together they jumped about in glee. Before long everyone was pairing up and twirling madly about the valley. Only those too old to jump about were quiet and they sat around on boulders shaking their heads and muttering about how terrible it was that the younger generation was "going to the dinosaurs."

Then, quickly as it had started, the sound from Ugh's new cave stopped. The bears had decided to move. Ugh walked out of the cave, and to his amazement all of his friends were gathered below him on the floor of the valley.

"MORE! MORE! they screamed. "MORE! MORE! GIVE US MORE, UGH."

At first Ugh didn't know what they meant, but when they told him how wonderful the sound had been and how much fun they had had jumping about, Ugh realized he had solved his problem of what to do at his cave warming.

"Dear friends," he thought fast, he had to give it some kind of a name. In the crowd he spotted his closest friends, Dan and Moo. "Tomorrow night I am throwing a cavewarming party and you are all invited to DANCING and MOOSIC."

After everyone left, Ugh was faced with the problem of making good his invitation. He knew he would never be able to find the eight bears again.

"A head's a head" he thought, and went out to search for eight unemployed cave men who would be willing to work. When he found them and lined them up to test their heads, he found that their names were Do, Re, Mi, Fa, Sol, La, Ti and Do.

They worked so well together, Ugh hired them on the spot. The result was that the cavewarming was a tremendous, if not a little loud, success.

As a matter of fact, Ugh's warm sounds are still with us today. Some people call it "Rock," a name obviously given it out of respect to its Stone Age inventor, Ugh, the creative cave man.
